

Once spotted,
by a nesting pair of cardinals, the male will take to the air.

his bright red coat,
so beautiful in winter,
is not for the pleasure of the random human,
but an attractive target
to a scavenging crow.

Copyright: BJFR-1996