

Merry Christmas Everyone,

Annie here! My Mom and Dad said no one really wants to read about how I'm 10 years old now, or how I'm in the 4th grade at the Sts. Joan of Arc & Patrick School, or how I made the Honor Roll, or how I'm competing in level 4 gymnastics and taking lots of firsts, or how

I chipped my tooth after whitewater rafting this summer, or how my Dad's company is still in bankruptcy, or how my Dad assistant-coached my soccer team to near victory, or how my Mom had surgery this year in Cleveland and is doing a little better, or how I learned to water ski this summer, or how Digby and Duffy are still alive and barking, or what I want for Christmas (everything), or some lengthy statistical analysis of my standardized academic test scores, or how you can visit me on the web at annie.boytim.com, or to come visit us next summer, or to have a great 2007, or how I'm just an all around great kid so I'm just sending pictures this year instead. Hugs and kisses,

Annie
