

Thank you for your interest in the Buffington Island Reenactment. The event will be held the weekend of July 18-20, 2003. The men of the 91st OVI, Co. B and the ladies of the Iron Hills Soldiers' Aid Society look forward to hosting you.

To help us with logistics, please pre-register your unit no later than June 1, 2003. Portland, Ohio does not have basic services and we must arrange to have everything that we need transported into the site. We cannot guarantee amenities for those who are not pre-registered. Those pre-registered will receive the usual amenities plus a meat dish with corn on the cob on Saturday evening. Fresh produce from local farms will be available for everyone to prepare as they wish. Some local organizations may have food concessions available on site during the day, but please plan accordingly for breakfast, lunches and your Friday evening meal. It is some distance to the nearest town for supplies.

We try to run a friendly, progressive event, but hope that everyone will take the time to read the event rules. Honoring these rules will ensure a memorable event for everyone. All rules relative to safety are paramount. Organizations unable or unwilling to abide by these rules should consider attending another event.

We ask that everyone participate in the Saturday memorial services. While it's fun to see people and participate in the battles, let's try to keep the focus on honoring those who fought and fell here.

Please send all registrations to:

91st Ohio Volunteer Infantry, Co. B
P.O. Box 354
Amanda, OH 43102
