

A Brief Glimpse into the Lives of Cinnamon and Maxine Timpko

Cinnamon is unhappy at having to share her house with that all white cat Maxine, the intruder, who has been with the Timpkos for over three years.

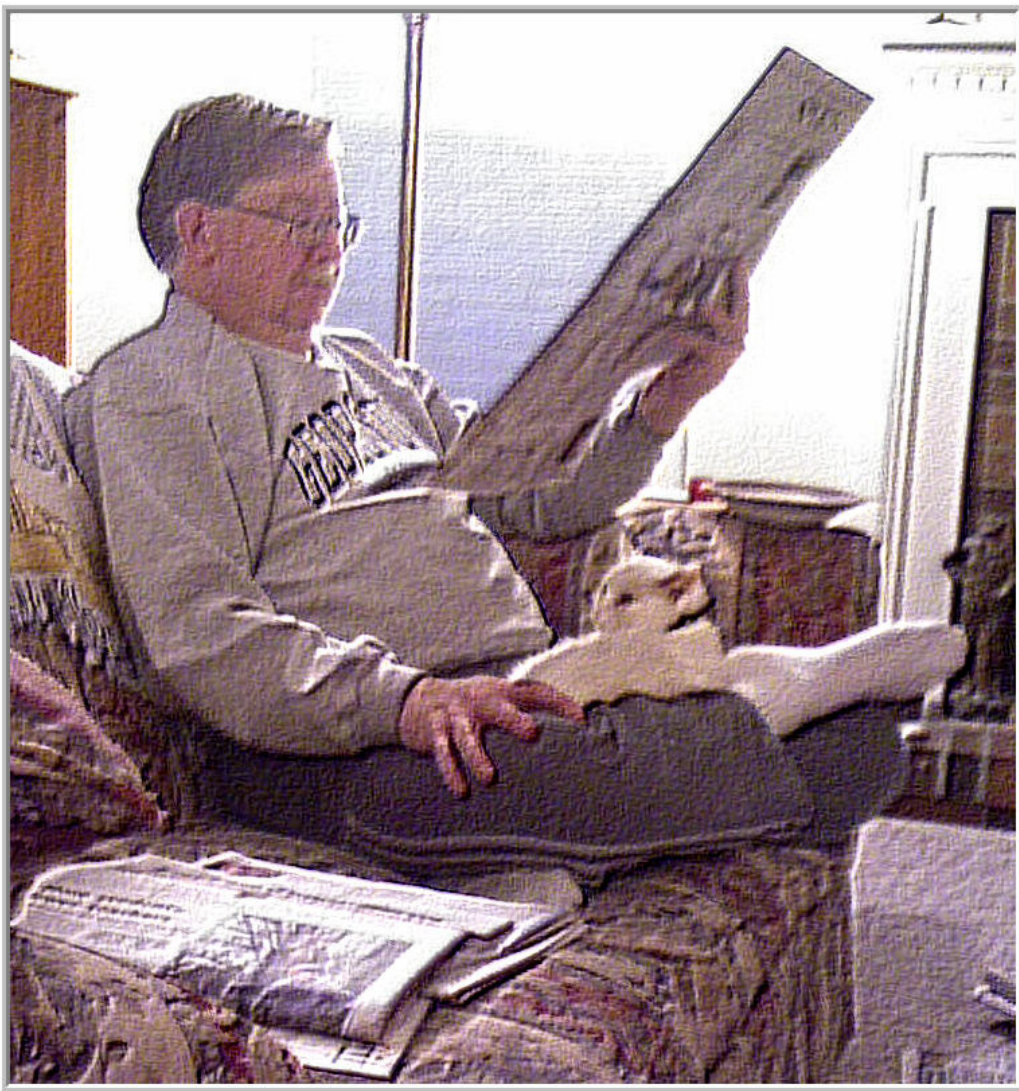

Maxine, that “all white cat,” stares at the flames wondering why Cinnamon can’t accept her.

Maxine likes lying in the sun on the window sill, her favorite morning sleeping place.

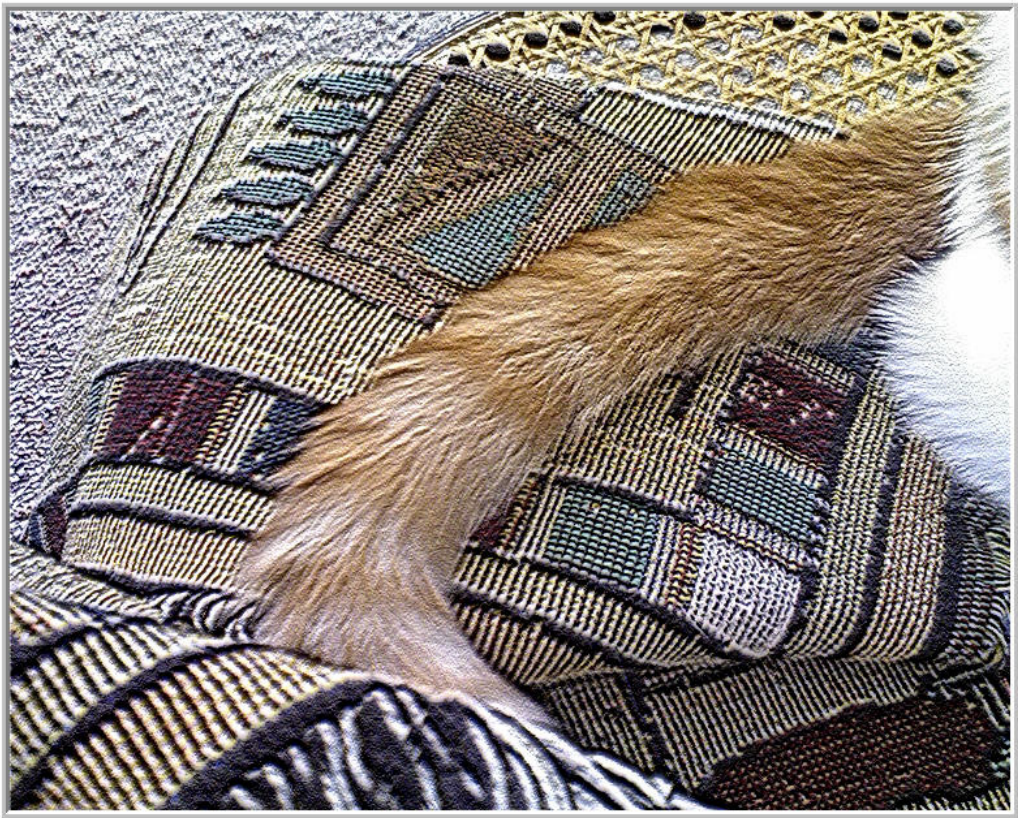

Maxine sleeps in her bed in the living room during the afternoon when the sun shines through the living room windows.

In the evening when Chuck and Denise return from work, Maxine likes to sit in her master's lap. Chuck is her favorite person.

After Chuck goes downstairs to his office, Maxine sleeps on the sofa, waiting for him to return to read a book. She can then sit in his lap again.

Cinnamon's opinion about these pictures is best illustrated by her tail.
