

Gone

There's a part of me like burning
When everyone else is gone
A part of me that eats poetry
Though I never knew it was gone.

They say there's hope in dreaming
But all my dreams are gone
They say the soul eats poetry
But they never said for how long.