Raised on the Canadian prairie, a little girl called Angelsea Saby playfully romped in sand pits and hay fields.

It wasn't until she came to the harbour city of Nanaimo that Angelsea chopped off her locks and turned into geLs - jazz and funk musician extraordinaire. However, she discovered her real passion just a few years down the road - thanks to her acceptance into the Malaspina diploma program for Graphic Design (by a narrow margin - but hey, she was a musician, of course she didn't have a strong portfolio !).

Extremely grateful upon her acceptance and tired of her party ways, geLs made a promise to herself to be the best of the best, to give it her all in good times and bad. Thus, after many sleepless nights, joyful and fearful moments, geLs finally graduated - in the top of her class (at least that's what she told her parents).

geLs' education and life experiences have made her an analytical, adaptive, resilient but fun person. Her love of rebellion yet respect for the boundaries has helped her flourish into the designer that she is today.
