CASSANDRA FRISKIE 12 year old Cassie Friskie born into a musical family showed the desire at the early age of three that she was going to be an entertainer.

Cassie has never hesitated to perform anytime anywhere for anyone. Cassie is a member of the renowned Pacific Mennonite Children's Choir as well as participating with the Abbotsford Children's Theatre. Besides her homework, Cassie attends musical theatre school, studying voice, drama and dance.

Following in Dad's footsteps (Randy 'Elvis' Friskie), Cassie's deep alto voice has contributed to her success performing in the Mini Superstar reviews as Cher and her tribute to Patsy Cline. Cassie has showed a maturity beyond her years when performing on the road throughout British Columbia and Alberta with her fathers stage shows - masters the tribute to Patsy Cline and Cher.

The highlight of the evening is the duet with her dad singing Don't Cry Daddy. Cassie, at the age of 12, has the energy and talent to have a very promising and professional career.
